

AQUILA 36, A PROMISING START

Aquila Boats specialize in motor catamarans, with a full range consisting of the Aquila 44 and 48, two nice, very liveable boats, and the builder's latest addition, the Aquila 36. The latter is particularly innovative and above all designed to make the most of an incredible nautical platform with a giant-sized cockpit for welcoming friends for day-sailing, powerful (outboard) propulsion for having fun, as well as real livability with two double cabins with private bathrooms. Presented to the public for the first time at Miami, the Aquila 36 has been a real success, as after just a few months, the builder is producing hull n° 20. Which goes to show that good ideas will always find their public!

Information: www.aquilaboats.com

NEW BROADBLUE 346

Broadblue's range (Rapier 400, Broadblue 385 S3 and Rapier 550) will very soon be expanded, with a brand-new boat called the Broadblue 346. This catamaran will replace the 345 S2 (launched in 2008) in the range. Just like all the Broadblues, the 346 is a genuine family cruiser, designed by Darren Newton from Dazcat. At 10.20m long, it will be the smallest Category A catamaran produced in Europe. Advertised at a price of £129,950, it is also one of the most financially affordable.

Discover it on www.broadblue.com

CORSAIR SPORT, EVEN FASTER

Corsair has just announced the 760 and 790 Sport Models – trimarans which, as their name suggests, are performance oriented. It must be said that although the company's trimarans have always been above all fast boats which are exciting to helm, the new interiors – even more luxurious and comfortable – could lead the general public to think that performance was no longer the main aim... Hence the range called SPORT, which is now available. For excitement lovers!

For more information: www.corsairmarine.com

MAMBO, an Unidentified Floating Object

Camillo De Gaspari is an Italian designer who likes boats. Here is his vision of the catamaran, which he himself describes as an Unidentified Floating Object, a radical and certainly not very politically correct concept in his opinion, but one which could appeal to enlightened enthusiasts, just as concept-cars can do... Mambo measures 23.99m long by 7.99m wide, and is propelled by 2 x 1400 hp engines, to reach a top speed of...44 knots, and all in remarkable comfort (and an Italian design) for 8 people and 4 crew members.

See it on: www.camdesign.eu

Cam

MULTIHULLS WORLD SPECIAL EDITION ERRATUM

In the excellent Special Ocean Cruising Edition of Multihulls World currently in newsstands, an error unfortunately slipped into our selection of boats in which to leave. Fountaine Pajot's Saona 47 was (wrongly) announced at 960,000 euros, exc. tax. This is in fact the price of the boat with all the options (carbon mast, Hydranet sails, generator, air conditioning...) whose test is in the magazine you have in your hands.

The basic price of the Saona 47 is 478,500 euros exc. tax.

But we hope this won't stop you hurrying to buy and discover this essential edition. Beware, however: if after reading it you decide to leave and live aboard your catamaran, you must – in turn – send us some superb articles about your most beautiful anchorages.

See it on: www.multihulls-world.com

